

Australian Reproduction Update 2025

Abstract Submissions

18th - 19th August 2025 The Woodward Conference Centre
mercyperinatal.com/event/aru2025

Thank you for your interest in submitting an abstract for ARU 2025 (Mon 18th – Tue 19th August 2025). This conference has a focus on all aspects of reproduction, from pre-conception through to pregnancy and neonatology, as well as reproductive organ dysfunction and cancers. We therefore welcome abstract submissions from any area of Reproduction. Abstracts will be reviewed by a scientific committee for scientific rigor and the top abstracts will be chosen to present in a special emerging talent oral communication session at the meeting. To showcase some of the newer and emerging talent from around Australia, we are limiting these sessions to Honours, Masters, PhD students and early postdoctoral researchers. By submitting an abstract, you are acknowledging that you fit within the specified criteria.

Eligibility criteria for abstract submission:

- Current Honours, masters and PhD students
- Post-doctoral researchers <8 years since conferral of PhD (or equivalent extension due to career interruptions)

Abstract format:

Please submit a structured abstract using the template provided. Maximum total word count of 300.

Submitting an abstract:

Please send your completed abstract in an email to:
australianreproductionupdate@gmail.com by Friday May 30th.

Acceptance and notification:

You will receive notification of your abstract outcome by the end of June 2024.

Australian Reproduction Update 2025 Abstract Template

Title:

Authors and Institution:

Abstract Guidelines

Word Limit: 300 total

Please use the following subtitles in your abstract:

Background, Methods, Results and Conclusion